$1 = 8.68 NOK (Norwegian Krone) / 20 NOK = $2.3 / 100 NOK = $11.51 / 1,000 NOK = $115.15
$1 = 9.64 SEK (Swedish Krona) / 20 SEK = $2.8 / 100 SEK = $10.38 / 1,000 SEK = $103.75

General Info:

- The five metro lines have numbers 1 through 5, the six tram lines have numbers 11 through 19, buses have labels from 20, while boats (ferries) are B1, B2 and so forth
    - To find a T-bane station, just look for the blue and white logo with a "T" within a circle
    - Buses & trams use the same ticket system as the metro
        - Two bus lines, 31 & 37, run all night, every day
- Ruter Service Center is the information centre for public transport in Oslo. It is found at Jernbanetorget, just outside Oslo Central Station, by the foot of the clock tower, as well as at Aker Brygge and at Oslo Airport (Gardermoen). They hand out free maps, give information and sell all kinds of tickets.
- The tap water of Oslo is among the cleanest in the world. Drink tap water instead of bottled water.
    - In front of the city hall you will find a drinking water station. Close to the harbor.
- Oslo pass not worth the $ since only going to 1-2 museums and can walk most places.

$1 = 9.64 SEK (Swedish Krona) / 20 SEK = $2.8 / 100 SEK = $10.38 / 1,000 SEK = $103.75

General Info:

- Stockholm public transportation timetables and info: https://sl.se/english
- The Subway Stations are works of art -- In Stockholm, when you descend under the city streets to board the T-Bana, you are not entering a dark, dingy, dirty metro station. The stations in Stockholm are covered with dramatic murals and colorful tilework. Some of the best are Kungsträdgården, Solna Centrum, and T-Centralen.
    - There are two forms of ticketing, passes and coupons. Passes and coupons are bought at SL Center (in different stations, including central station and t-central), at all Pressbyrån stores, most supermarkets and some smaller kiosks. Tickets can't be bought on buses.
    - Passes are available for 24 hours, 72 hours and 30 days, and allow unrestricted rides on all buses, trams, T-bana, and commuter trains, as well as the Djurgården ferry. The 72-hour pass also confers free admission to Gröna Lund.
- No cash needed other than for public restrooms
- Everywhere you go, there is free Wi-Fi: on trains, in shops and cafés, walking down the street… everywhere. Often your phone or computer will get a prompt, asking if you want Wi-Fi. If not, you can usually find it easily in your settings and if that doesn't work, just ask at the counter: they'll have a password that will get you online in seconds.
